Oxford - London Summer Programme

This section provides details of the academic, co-curricular and logistical aspects of the Oxford - London Summer Programme. Students will spend one week at London and second week at Imperial College London. This provides our students with a unique experience that is not comparable to any other summer programme. This programme captures a perfect mix of world class academic experience and the diversity of metropolitan life. In other words, the Oxford - London summer programme has been designed to provide a head start to our students to become successful professionals in the competitive global market.

Academic Activities

The programme focuses on individual learning and tailored counselling. Courses offered in our programme are tailor-made for each student in recognition of their unique needs, interests and competencies in each subject.

Tutorial Teaching Method and Range of Courses

During the Second week, Oxford's renowned Tutorial Teaching method is used. Students are divided into small groups of three students per tutor. Students can choose two subjects from a range of options offered during the programme. The programme includes all key subjects in the realms of Physical and Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Arts and Humanities.

Distinctive Features of Oxford - London Summer Programme

Students will be able to interact individually with tutors and attend lectures from eminent scholars at the University of Oxford and Imperial College London. Our students get a flavour of academic environments in multiple top universities in the UK. In the first week of the programme, students will get an opportunity to attend guest lectures at Imperial College London.

Our programme includes activities and excursions to some of the most exciting and important sites in London for an all-encompassing London experience. Our team will show you parts of London, hidden from plain view.

Study Materials

We use our own bespoke study materials that include audio-video content as well as other multimedia formats. All study materials will be provided by the Oxford Institute and are included in the fees.

Lecture/Tutorial Rooms

Lecture halls and tutorial rooms at Oxford University and Imperial College London will be used to conduct classes and teach students. We have partnered with the world-renowned Oxford Union (the oldest and the most influential debating society in the world) to improve our students' communication, language and public speaking skills. Students will get an opportunity to practice public speaking at the historic debating chamber at the Oxford Union (please check: <http://www.oxford-union.org/>). President of the Oxford Union, Charlie Mackintosh and Ahmad Nawaz conducted sessions on debating/spoken English last year.

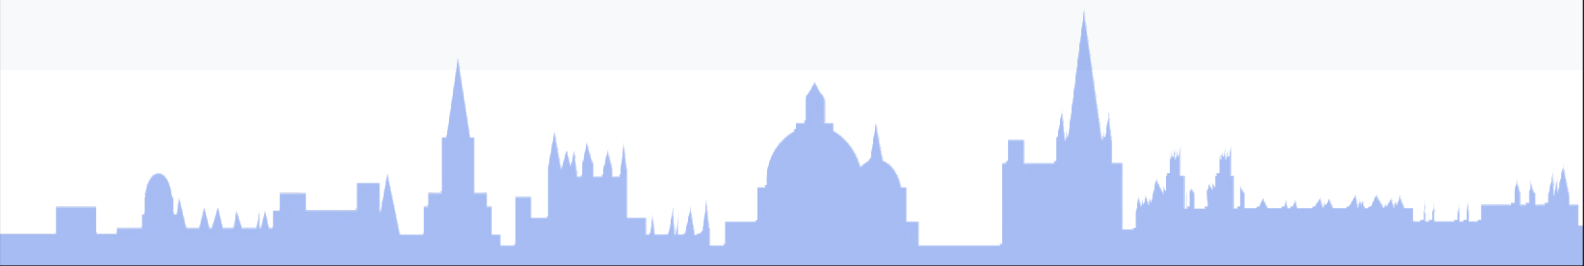

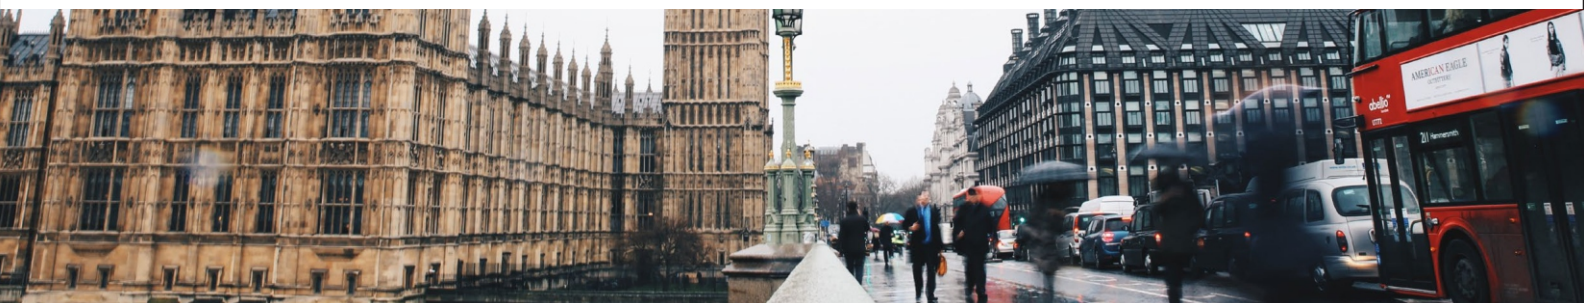

Certificates and References

Our tutors are happy to provide academic references to their students. An academic reference by one of our tutors is considered immensely valuable by universities and helps students make an effective case for future admissions. Students also get a certificate for the successful completion of the course and a transcript with details of grades achieved. Please note that all summer courses are accredited and approved by the British Accreditation Council.

Career Counselling and University Admissions

Expert career counsellors as well as subject tutors provide extensive career counselling and advice for university admissions to students in accordance with students' individual needs and circumstances

Co-Curricular Activities

We offer a range of co-curricular activities to make this a fun experience for students. We understand that this is a summer holiday as well as an academic camp and we want students to get the most out of it.

These co-curricular activities include; many indoor and outdoor sports activities such as football, cricket, table tennis, ice-skating, ten-pin bowling among others; followed by a picnic and a BBQ in University Parks and punting, which is boating in a flat-bottomed boat and regarded as one of the most famous attractions in Oxford.
